The Path of least resistance: Lessons from Champions League Tournament

Dr Ajibola Awolowo

he joy in my heart knows no bounds as I type this. The best football club in the world, Real Madrid, just won their 14th champions league title in grand style. I am a staunch supporter of this awesome football club and have been so for as long as I can remember. If you're a Liverpool fan, know that I feel your pain. The hope for revenge and a quadruple fizzled out as soon as it was conceived. It is what it is. #RespectYourElders.

For me, the big news was not that we won the champions league, again. Rather, the spectacular thing was the way in which we won it. In the group stages, we squared up with Inter Milan, Shakhtar Donetsk and Sheriff Tiraspol. In the round of 16, we faced the state backed Paris St. Germain over two legs and won that tie in a spectacular fashion. Then came Chelsea football club, Manchester City football club and finally, Liverpool Football club.

It was as if the difficulty level kept increasing until the final match for us. I can safely say that this was the toughest run up to a champions league title any club has ever had.

It was only after the final that the reality hit me. To win the champions league trophy, all you have to do is qualify from the group stage, defeat the next three opponents over 2 legs and the last opponent in the final match. It does not matter if lose one leg in each of the round of 16, quarterfinal or semi-final matches. Just defeat them in the next leg and win on aggregate. Qualify from the group, defeat your next 4 opponents and you are the champions league winner.

Whether the four opponents you face happen to be clubs backed by infinite oil money or are minnows from unknown European Leagues, defeat them all and you'll be a Champion. The run up to the final match makes no real difference. You will earn more plaudits and bragging rights for facing and defeating clubs from top European leagues. Other than this, it makes no difference. 32 teams start the tournament all vying for the trophy but only one team will achieve this objective.

The means does not justify the end. Whether your path was tumultuous or easy, the trophy remains the same. There are no extra points for difficulty in this game. In the same vein, we all approach the stock market with the aim of making a profit. It does not matter if the profit comes from buying Dangote Cement, Zenith Bank, Japaul Gold or Daar communications. 10% profit coming from Transcorp is identical to 10% profit from Seplat.

Don't misinterpret me. All the companies listed on the stock exchange are not equal. Some are penny stocks while others have large capitalization. Some earn over one trillion naira in annual revenues while others do not even have a naira of revenue at all. Companies all have different inherent risks, operate in industries and have different likelihood of moving up or down in price at various times. However, a 10% loss or gain in all the various listed equities is identical. There is no extra benefit to be earned when one earns 10% from a large company as against earning the same from a semi-comatose company.

There is no advantage in trying to make profit from complex companies as that same effort will be better serve you in simple/ straightforward companies. There are no additional points for taking on difficult tasks asides the bragging rights and plaudits from other investors.

You can argue that the time invested in studying complex companies that have multiple subsidiaries pays off as you may be one of the few people who are willing to pay the price to identify a price/value mismatch. This in turn may yield a higher possibility for profits once it becomes obvious to the crowd. You however need to realise the amount of risk you are taking when dealing with complexity. This increased risk can make the potential returns not worth the while.

If all profits and losses are identical, it will make sense for us to only concentrate our efforts on companies where we may have an advantage over other investors. In those situations, there is a limited downside risk and unlimited upside potential since we know those companies exceptionally well. This is equivalent to Real Madrid football club playing Shooting Stars of Ibadan, Gateway football club of Ogun, Enugu Rangers and El-Kanemi Warriors of Maiduguri in the knockout stages of the champions league. By doing this, Real Madrid increases their probability of winning the title while taking little risk in the process. Sometimes, it is best to choose the path of least resistance in as much as it leads to the same destination that a more complex path does.

As investors, we must ensure we only participate in games where we are at an advantage. Remember, there are no extra points for difficulty. You do not need to make money in the approximately 150 companies listed on the main board of the Nigeria Stock Market. Concentrate your effort on the few you truly understand in more details than the average investor.

If you are an electrician or sell electrical cables/ supplies, you will have unique insight into which company produces the best cables or which company's products fly off the shelves faster than other.

To illustrate this, I'll cite an example which I recall from about 8 years ago. I worked in a teaching hospital where the norm was to use imported and a select few locally manufactured intravenous fluids and medications. Gradually, I noticed a new entrant – Fidson Pharmaceuticals. The previously popular intravenous fluid brands were phased out over a few months and fluids/ Medications made by Fidson became the new normal.

This was a trend I noticed in the line of $my\ job$ which had nothing to do with investing. Was the same trend going on in other hospitals? I could have called colleagues in other hospitals to see if they had noticed the same thing. At the time, this increased sale was not obvious in the financial statements of the company but I arguably spotted it prior to other investors. Unfortunately, I did not buy the company as a reason of this insight and ended up missing out on the over 300% returns the share price has returned since then.

With deep reflection, a large dose of curiosity and attention to details, we are all able to spot trends that support or disprove a particular company or an industry earlier than other investors. This information may come to you through your day job, as you do your shopping or as you interact with others. You may need to read a book about a company or industry which can give you an edge. Strive to become a specialist in a company or an industry. This immediately gives you an edge over the average investor.

Real Madrids' successful champions league campaign also proves that you do not need to be right 100% of the time to get a positive outcome. In all, they played 13 matches, lost 4 matches (Sheriff Tiraspol, PSG, Chelsea and Manchester City) and won 9. You do not need to win all your matches to get the trophy. You just need to qualify from the group, win on aggregate scores in 3 of the 4 knockout matches and certainly, win the final match.

As investors, we do not need to make a profit on every single trade we place. If this is your aim, you have failed even before starting. Super investors such as Warren Buffett get things wrong 1/3rd of the time. Our aim should be to maximize gains when we are right and minimize losses when we are wrong. Often, we are quick to take profits but slow to cut our losers. We should rather be watering our flowers and plucking off the weeds. It takes discipline, patience and understanding of ones self/process to do this consistently.

Even though calm seas do not make fine sailors, I suspect sailors would rather journey on calm waters all the time. If you have lived through a storm on the open sea, you won't blame them. Taking the path of least resistance may not be a sign of laziness but a mark of timeless wisdom. Embrace it.

Julius Berger delivers progressively highest dividend in five years to loyal shareholder foremost engineering construction company, Julius Berger Nigeria PLC, Mr. Mutiu Sunmonu, CON has said that though the company had challenges in the 2021 financial year, it excelled and overcame the challenges by dint of hard work and unflinching commitment to success on the part of the management and staff of the

He spoke just as the Managing Director, Engr Dr. Lars Richter disclosed that the company stood strong in the year under review even as the company's shareholders approved a N2.50k per share dividends.

Speaking at the 52nd Annual General Meeting of the company Saturday in Abuja, the Chairman presented the Consolidated Financial Statements of the year under review saying that within the period, Julius Berger Nigeria Plc performed positively despite the numerous macro-economic hiccups which affected businesses during the year. He added that the company achieved exceptional financial performance, meeting targets for both revenue and cash flow. "One for those challenges, of course is COVID-19, which remains ever present in our personal and professional lives - with prolonged consequences. Unfortunately, we are unable to put this virus behind us just yet, "the Chairman said.

However, the Chairman did not mince words in declaring that, "while 2021 was certainly a challenging year, more positively, it was also a dynamic and industrious year," adding that, "within our core construction business, we made meaningful progress across our portfolio of private and public projects". "The removal of the subsidy that the authorities had originally planned by mid-2022 was postponed until 2023 or later, which is expected to generate considerable fiscal costs.

"The 2022 amended budget (yet to be adopted at the time of this publication) allocates N4tn (almost two per cent of Gross Domestic Product) for the petrol subsidy, higher than the combined budget allocated for education, health, and social protection."

As of May 2022, the oil production output stood at 1.5 million barrels per day, which is the lowest in 15 years.

It was further stated that the fuel subsidy is estimated to cost the government over $9bn in 2022, which is almost two per cent of the Gross Domestic Product.

The report added, "Due to the petrol subsidy and low oil production, Nigeria faces a potential fiscal time bomb."

The Nigerian National Petroleum Corporation deducted a significant portion of the Federation's oil revenues to pay for the petrol subsidy.

The World Bank encouraged the government to redirect the money spent on subsidy towards targeted and time-bound cash transfers and other priority investments in health, education, and critical infrastructure.

Businesses at this time: What determines huge patronage?

n recent times, we have seen more businesses reporting low or no profit and, in some cases, no revenue. The case of business failures is equally high and prevalent, which could be attributed to the changing landscape with the aftermath of coronavirus pandemic, high inflation, poor supply chains, high exchange rate regime, and a host of other struggles. Despite the coronavirus pandemic radically altering business operations and customer experiences, many businesses in Africa, particularly Nigeria, have stuck to the prevailing old pattern of customer service, which frequently involves poor customer convenience and low customer satisfaction. Though we have seen more of innovations around technology adoption in businesses to improve performance and retain customers, little is noticed in small businesses and large firms in Nigeria. Despite changing business models all across different industries around the world to meet current realities and customer expectations. Consequently, businesses that wish to maintain survival need to adjust to the realities around customer expectations, preferences, and convenience without further delay. If small businesses fail to recognise these changes in customer expectations, they may face a business continuity threat rather than just poor performance, likewise large firms.

The majority of business advances in recent times have been inspired by technology, noticeably in service businesses and food-service sectors, particularly restaurants and transportation. For instance, considering the case of Uber, the car hailing business and the likes, the business model was driven by changes in consumer behaviour and convenience was the major driver. The success of the business model does not rest on a deep emotional connection with customers but the success may be summed up in a single word: convenience. Also, based on my observations around Lagos State, the adjudged economic capital of Nigeria, I have seen a restaurant with multiple outlets offer a single meal, rice with boiled egg, for N500. That is less than a dollar for the meal, noting that a $1 is around N600 in the country. Similarly, banks provide mobile banking software applications (apps) through which accounts may be opened online and transactions can be completed, even to borrow funds, without having to enter the banking hall. Another example is the sudden deployment of point-of-sale (PoS) terminals to agents throughout the country, with the agents executing some banking transactions nearly everywhere outside banking halls. Further to this, in Somolu, a Lagos State suburb, I have also seen that a local café (Amala joint) opens on Sundays when competitors are all closed, and chooses to close on Mondays to observe the one day off per week. With this idea, the local cafe operator can give a lot of customers the flexibility and convenience they need on Sundays while also making premium on the business gains. All these concepts are intended to capitalise on customer convenience and the current realities nothing

Therefore, business owners and SME operators should understand this and know that when it comes to the most crucial aspects of customer needs, convenience is supreme. Each customer, though, may have different ideas of what constitutes convenience, from pricing to the business location, payment options, ease of shopping or making transactions, business opening days and time flexibility, customer experience of ordering, delivering, and the likes. It is important to note that most consumers are price sensitive though and base their purchasing or service decisions on it.

According to my further observations in Lagos State, I noticed that despite a lack of solid business concepts and knowledge, the numerous neighbourhood corner-shops, traffic hawkers, and businesses without recognised classification, operate on this convenience model. Though it may seem to be an insignificant way to operate a business, the turnover, revenue, and profit could be sufficient to sustain the operators. The expectation is that customers will hurriedly need items or products, and such businesses exist on this premise. Whereas I see major enterprises with a brick-and-mortar retailing strategy still paying exorbitant rent to maintain a physical presence without operating online or adopting technology for convenience. Ignoring the digital age that has changed the retail industry, and indeed most sectors of the economy, where businesses can relate with customers anywhere and at any

As a result, it is high time for structured enterprises, retail outlets, and large businesses to adopt the convenience model in order to improve business sustainability and profitability. Convenience is more important to consumers than ever before, particularly in terms of pricing, (i.e., affordable services or products) and location that is easily accessible (physical or online). What matters to most consumers is the time and effort they have to expend because they are largely impatient – the less time, the better, and the less amount, the best.

Giving an illustration of how convenience can make a business more profitable in a case of a superstore, patronage can be increased by having a good and convenient location, reducing expensive, specialty, or high-end products and exponentially increasing convenient goods. Convenient goods are items or products that customers can easily afford and frequently buy on impulse without much thought. Such items are groceries, eatables, detergents, toothpaste, paper products, and emergency products such as light bulbs and so on. The idea is that large volume is likely to be sold within a short period, and repeat purchases will happen continually and such business will be active and performing. Furthermore, technology too can greatly help in this instance, that is where e-commerce comes in. The extra levels of convenience where customers can effectively use their phones with seamless payment platforms or gateways to effect purchases or transactions will help a great deal, no matter how small. For micro businesses social media platforms and WhatsApp status can equally help with cheap advertisement and keeping customers

For other forms of businesses, particularly large firms a business model can be designed or redesigned around convenient solutions. To create convenience, firms must find ways to eliminate any "friction" that may arise when a potential customer interacts with or purchases from their business. Such convenience can be designed around, packaging, delivery, usability, automation, and product variety. Let the truth be told, convenience can actually increase repeat purchases of any form of business, which in turn helps increase and grow the profit margin. Any strategy to boost the convenience of customers can also give brand loyalty, which will, at the end of the day, give a competitive edge and market-dominance. Therefore, providing convenience can be the key to business success at this time of high inflation, low disposable income, and weak purchasing power of the majority, who are the masses. Because by saving customers' time, money, and energy, businesses can also make more income.

Significantly, market survey and customer research may assist in determining which solutions will enhance business service, and overall provide a high degree of ease. Quite often, I have noticed that businesses do not leverage on feedbacks from customers. It is good to have present customers submit comments or reviews highlighting instances in which particular business (or rivals' business) failed to meet their convenience expectations, and this may be a pointer to what needs to be addressed. It takes more than pricing to outperform competition, so consider how to integrate convenience into a designed business model. Who says customers cannot order a haircut, photo shoot, home-cooked meals, or even a manicure directly from their mobile phones for a convenient home service? All that is needed is for the vendors or business owners to think critically and carry out research about the ways things should work.

In conclusion, to effectively engage with today's hyper-connected, technology-savvy, and impatient consumers, businesses must be preoccupied with offering quick, convenient and simple solutions. In short, nothing pays more for businesses at this time than being more convenience-oriented because it could be the shortest path to increasing customer retention, loyalty and business profitability. Good luck!

Understanding Bulls, Bears & Market Sentiment

often nvestors have differing opinions about particular stocks or about the direction of the economy as a measured by gross domestic whole. Each trading day is similar to a struggle between optimists and pessimists who buy and sell at various prices given different expectations. The stock market is said to incorporate all of the information that exists about the companies it represents, and that manifests itself as price. When optimists dominate, prices trend upwards, and we say stocks become overvalued. In that we are in a bull market. When the opposite is true, and prices trend lower, we are in a bear market.

A bull market is when everything to fundamentals, and optimistic in the economy is running objectively well: people are finding jobs and unemployment product (GDP), and stocks are rising. Picking stocks during a bull market is arguably easier because everything is going up. If a person is optimistic and believes that stocks will go up, he often realize to have a bullish outlook. Bull markets cannot last forever though, and sometimes they can lead to dangerous situations if fact, one severe form of a bull market is known as a bubble, where the upward trajectory of stock prices no longer conforms sentiment completely takes over.

Historically, what happened around 2018 an example of what participants often overreact in is low, the economy is growing as we can call bubbles, where prices of both good and bad stocks skyrocketed that eventually sparked the Great Recession. Bubbles always burst when reality catches up with overinflated prices, and people bubbles or she is called a bull and is said hindsight. It is difficult to recognize when investors are in a bubble and even harder to predict when it will pop.

A bear market is informally defined as a 20% drop in broad indices. Bear markets happen when the economy appears to be great opportunities for long-term near recession, unemployment rises, corporate profits fall, and GDP contracts. Bear markets make it tough for investors to pick profitable stocks. One solution to this is to profit from when stocks are falling via short selling. Another strategy is to wait on the sidelines until you feel that the bear market is nearing its end, only starting to buy in anticipation of a bull market.

Bear markets are typically associated with an increase in stock market volatility, since investors typically fear losses more than they appreciate gains at an emotional level. People are not always rational actors especially when it comes to money and investments. During bear markets, prices do not drop in an orderly or rational way to some fundamental level of priceto-earnings, but rather market panic and send prices below reasonable valuations.

When there is panic, there is fear. Irrational behavior can and markets can collapse. Expectations about future cash flows essentially drop to zero and people become more concerned with converting investments into cash than future growth. Only when rational investing behavior is restored does a bear market turn a corner. It is also worth pointing out that bear markets can be investors to buy stocks "on sale" at relatively low prices, which can actually boost overall returns over long time horizons.

Heart Attack, the Silent Killer

heart attack is often confused for a cardiac arrest just as we read in the last week's edition. While they are both medical emergencies, a heart attack is the blockage of an artery leading to the heart damage, which consequently results in cardiac arrest. That is, it involves the heart stopping the pumping of blood around the body. to WHO, an According estimated 17.9 million people died from Cardiovascular disease (CVD) in 2016, representing 31% of all global deaths. Of these deaths, 85% are due to heart attack and stroke. Over three quarters of CVD deaths take place in lowand middle-income countries of which Nigeria is in this category. In Nigeria, more than 1.5 million cases per year are reported. In 2019, four out of five Cardio Vascular disease (CVDs) deaths are due to heart attacks and strokes, which is responsible for the high burden of morbidity and disability. Most people with CVDs are not aware until catastrophes like stroke, heart attack or death occur.

A heart attack happens when something blocks the blood flow to your heart so it can't get the oxygen it needs. Heart attacks are also called myocardial infarctions (MI). "Myo" means muscle, "cardial" refers to the heart, and "infarction" means death of tissue because of a lack of blood supply. This tissue death can cause lasting damage to your heart muscle. The heart muscle needs a constant supply of oxygen-rich blood, while the coronary arteries give your heart this critical blood supply. If you have coronary artery disease, those arteries become narrow, and blood can not flow as much as it should. When the blood supply is blocked, you have a heart attack. Fat, calcium. proteins, inflammatory cells build up in your arteries to form plaques. These plaque deposits are hard on the outside, soft and mushy on the inside. When the plaque is hard, the outer shell cracks. This is called a rupture. Platelets (disc-shaped things in your blood that help it clot) come to the area, and blood clots form around the plaque. If a blood clot blocks your artery, your heart muscle becomes starved of oxygen. Then, muscle cells soon die, causing permanent damage. Rarely, a spasm in your coronary artery can also cause a heart attack. During this coronary spasm, your arteries restrict or spasm on and off, cutting off the blood caused by a temporary decrease attack. Heart attack risk factors supply to the heart muscle in blood flow to the heart. include: (ischemia). It can happen while Discomfort, one is at rest and an individual not having any history of serious or pain in your chest or arm or older are more likely to have a coronary artery disease. Heart attack is referred to as silent killer because often times the signs and symptoms are mistakenly referred to as signs of anxiety. The amazing thing about this disease is that not all people who have heart attacks have the same symptoms or have the same severity of symptoms. Some people have mild pain; others have more severe pain. Some people have no symptoms, for some, the first back or jaw pain. With some, sign may be sudden cardiac heart attacks symptoms are (a arrest. However, the more signs "silent" myocardial infarction) and symptoms you have, the greater the chance of you who have diabetes having a heart attack. Many people have warning signs and the unwanted build-up of fatty symptoms hours, days or weeks deposits (atherosclerosis) that warning might be recurrent your body. High blood pressure: Severe weakness, anxiety, Over time, high blood pressure fatigue, or shortness of breath, can damage arteries that lead to conditions, such as obesity, high cholesterol or diabetes, increases an individual's risk even more.

Lack of physical activity: Being inactive contributes to high blood cholesterol levels and obesity. People who exercise regularly have better heart health, including lower blood pressure.

Family history of heart attacks: If your siblings, parents or grandparents have had early heart attacks (by age 55 for males and by age 65 for females), you might be at increased risk.

Stress: The body responds to stress in ways that can increase the risk of a heart attack.

Illicit drug use: Using stimulant drugs, such as cocaine or amphetamines, can trigger a spasm of the coronary arteries that can cause a heart attack.

It is never too late to take steps to prevent a heart attack even if you have already had one.

Tips for Heart Attack Prevention:

The goal after an episode of heart attack is to keep the heart healthy and lower the risk of having another heart attack. Take medications as directed, make healthy lifestyle changes, and see the doctor for regular heart check-ups.

Medications: Taking medications can reduce the risk of a subsequent heart attack and help damaged heart function better.

Lifestyle factors: You know the drill; maintain a healthy weight with a heart-healthy diet, don't smoke, exercise regularly, manage stress and control conditions that can lead to a heart attack, such as high blood pressure, high cholesterol and diabetes.

Leaving you on this note this week, please, do remember, never to wait till something goes wrong before we see your health care providers; and the secret of health for both mind and body is not to mourn for the past, not to worry about the future, or not to anticipate troubles, but to live the present moment wisely and earnestly and to always remember to take care of your body because it is the only place you have to live.

Ogun govt plans improved living standard for residents

he Ogun State Government has approved the work plan for its Human Capital Development Programme as part of its commitment to improving the standard of living of its residents.

This was made known in a statement by the press officer, Kehinde Balogun, after the HCDP stakeholders' meeting held in Abeokuta on Friday.

The Deputy Governor and Chairin-Council for the HCDP, Mrs Noimot Salako-Oyedele, expressed satisfaction with the work plan, saying it would be forwarded to the Office of the Vice-President for final approval, execution, and implementation of the project in the state.

"In Ogun State, we have engaged other officials in the Office of the Vice President, and Ogun has been commended for the development of the working document, aimed at enhancing the capacities of the citizenry,

During the presentation of the work plan, the Commissioner for Budget and Planning and Focal Person for the Programme, Mr Olaolu Olabimtan, said the committee was the highest organ of HCDP in the state, as it comprises ministries, departments and agencies drawn from the health, education, and labour force thematic areas.

The Technical Assistant of the programme, Dr Dayo Adeyanju, said poor human capital development indices in the country necessitated the establishment of a core working group to develop a unified framework on how best to improve health, education, and labour needs sectors.

Africa Prudential Plc: Income from digital technology space to drive growth frica Prudential Plc announced its Unaudited Financial Statements for the period ended March 31st, 2022, with moderate growth in its top line and bottom line figures, year on year.

The Company achieved Gross Earnings of N907.78 million, Profit after Tax of N403.15 million and Earnings per Share of 20 kobo.

Income Statement:

- Revenue from contracts with customers for the 3 months period N 0.45 billion, up by 25% year on year, compared to N0.36 billion reported in Q1 2021. This is driven by a 212% year-on-year growth in digital technology services despite the 60% decline in Fees from Corporate Actions.
- Interest Income was down by 2% year on year to N0.46 billion, compared to N0.47 billion reported in Q1 2021. This is due to a 4% decline in the interest on loans and advances and an 86% decline in interest on shortterm deposits during the period. On the other hand, Interest earned on bonds increased 44% year on year, cushioning the effect of the significant decline from other interest income sources.

- Gross Earnings grew by 9.95% year on year to N0.91 billion, from N0.83 billion reported in Q1 2021.
- Total operating expenses: Despite the slight decrease in total operating expenses by 2% YoY our cost-toincome ratio reduced by 3 percentage points to 39% relative to 42% in the corresponding period.
- Profit before Tax grew by 15% to N0.55 billion from N0.48 billion reported in Q1
- Profit after Tax in Q1 2022 grew by 5.71% to N0.40 billion, from N0.38 Billion reported in Q1 2021
- Earnings per share for the 3 months period stands at 20 kobo, up by 5.71% from the EPS of 19 kobo reported in Q1 2021.

Balance Sheet:

Total Assets of the company stands at N17.10 billion, up by 11%, compared to N15.76 billion as at Q1 2021. During the period, the book value of total assets grew 9% year-on-year driven by an 11% increase in cash and cash equivalents and a 28% increase in Trade and other receivables.

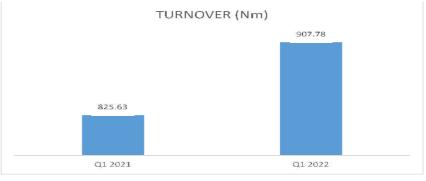

Total Liabilities of AFRIPRUD stands at N8.94 year, compared to N6.99 our expanding clientele base." billion as at Q1 2021. This due to due to a 27% growth in customers' deposits and a 110% growth in creditors and accruals.

Shareholders' Fund stood at N8.16 billion, down by 7% year on year from N8.77 billion as at Q1 2021. This is due to faster growth in liabilities relative to assets.

Commenting on the result, the MD/CEO of Africa Prudential, Obong Idiong, stated thus:

"We are pleased to start the year with the positive Q1 results. The recorded growth in our business is a testament to the impact of our deliberate effort at enhancing our traditional mono revenue lines to multiple income lines, innovating new ways to deliver value in an agile manner, and adopting cost efficiency in every facet of our operation. The 212% growth in digital technology income reiterates the effectiveness of our switch to a new business model and we remain positive about the potential growth from this revenue stream in the coming quarters and long term. As the year progresses, we remain focused on increasing shareholder's wealth and commit to delivering an billion, up by 28% year on exceptional customer experience to

Nneka Onyeali-Ikpe: Transformational leader, daring achiever with decades of banking experience

neka Onyeali-Ikpe is one of the few women shaking the banking industry in Nigeria. She is the Managing Director/CEO of Fidelity Bank Plc.

Mrs. Onyeali-Ikpe has been an integral part of the transformation team at Fidelity Bank in the last six years. She was formerly Executive Director, Lagos and South West, overseeing the bank's business in the six states that make up the South West region of the bank.

She is a consummate professional of over 30 years' experience across various banks including Standard Chartered Bank Plc, Zenith Bank Plc and Citizens International Bank Limited, where she held several management positions in Legal, Treasury, Investment Banking, Retail/Commercial Banking, Corporate Banking. She has been involved in the structuring of transactions in various sectors including oil & gas, manufacturing, aviation, real estate and exports.

As an Executive Director at Enterprise Bank Plc, she received formal commendation from the Asset Management Corporation of Nigeria (AMCON) as a member of the management team that successfully turned around Enterprise Bank Plc.

Mrs. Onyeali-Ikpe holds

Bachelor of Laws (LLB) and Master of Laws (LLM) degrees from the University of Nigeria, Nsukka and Kings College, London, respectively. She has attended executive training programs at Harvard Business School, The Wharton School University of Pennsylvania, INSEAD School of Business, Chicago Booth School of Business, London Business School and IMD amongst others.

She is also an Honorary Senior Member (HCIB) of The Chartered Institute of Bankers of Nigeria (CIBN).
